

SHIP'S CREW LOST IN ATLANTIC OCEAN

Ss. Princess Norah Given Civic Welcome

New C.P.R. Boat Completes Maiden Trip From Clyde

Harbor, Shipping and Industrial Plants Extend Noisy
Welcome to Newest Addition to Company's Fleet;
Alderman James Adam Greets Capt. C. C. Sainty
With Presentation of New Ensign; Chamber of Commerce Plans Public Luncheon on Friday

Demonstratively appreciative of the progressive policy of the C.P.R. in developing its steamship services to a state of efficiency unsurpassed in any part of the world, Victoria to-day extended a rousing welcome to the trim steamer Princess Norah,
newest addition to the coastwise fleet of the B.C. Coast Service. The Princess Norah has been specially constructed for the West Coast run.

With Capt. C. C. Sainty, veteran of the company's coast service, on the bridge, the Princess Norah reached the Belleville Street docks at 1 o'clock
this afternoon, completing her maiden voyage from Glasgow on the Clyde.

A NOISY WELCOME
The new steamer was met at quarantine by the steamer Salvage King, companying company officials, welcoming delegates and newspapermen. The Salvage King conveyed the Norah into port and as the vessel passed up the harbor she was greeted by noisy blasts from the sirens of shipping and industrial plants.

Without delay the welcoming parties boarded the Princess Norah as soon as the boat had been warped alongside the dock. They were received on board
by Capt. Sainty.

CIVIC WELCOME
As chairman of the civic reception committee, Alderman James Adam complimented Capt. Sainty in bringing the Princess Norah safely to port and spoke in glowing terms of the company's policy in building up its steamship services on this coast
as reflected in the splendid fleet of which Victoria is the home port. He spoke in congratulatory terms of the work of the builders, the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, in turning out such a splendid example of the shipbuilding craft.

Unemployed Join In March

Scottish and Welsh Parties Will Urge London Government to Increase Aid

Glasgow, Jan. 23.—A march of unemployed workers on London was started to-day with 150 Scottish shipyard workmen and coal miners left here. Similar parties plan to start from other points in Scotland and South Wales, converging on London, with the hope of influencing the Government to increase the assistance to those without work.

The Trades Union Congress is officially discouraging the march. It is stated the journey in bad weather will entail great hardships on men already suffering from the effects of long unemployment, and is likely to achieve no useful object. A similar march was organized in 1927 by A. J. Cook, the miners' leader.

COMMUNIST SPEAKERS IN TORONTO MUST USE ENGLISH

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Those addressing communist meetings in Toronto henceforth are required to do so in the English language.

Soon after the new order had been issued yesterday by Chief of Police Draper, following a conference he had with the city police commission, police were called upon to enforce it. Philip Salpeter, editor of Kumpf, a Jewish communist weekly, defied the order and delivered an address in Yiddish at a Lenin memorial meeting in a theatre here. He spoke from the aisle of the theatre and was taken into custody
and charged with disorderly conduct.
Hoots and jeers followed the action of the police.

The new order was the subject of vigorous attacks at the meeting. Tim Buck, secretary in Canada of the Trade Union Educational League, demanded:

NORAH FINE STEAMER FOR COAST RUN

Ship Which Arrived To-day
Latest Thing in Marine Architecture

Will Provide Seaworthy and Comfortable Passage to Points on West Coast

"She's a little beauty and behaved wonderfully all the way,"
was Capt. C. C. Sainty's comment
regarding the new C.P.R. steamer Princess Norah which reached port
this morning after her long trip
from the Clyde where she was built.

"Not a teaspoonful of water was shipped from the time we left Glasgow," he continued, "and everything worked like a charm. She is certainly a splendid sea boat and is a decided acquisition to the coast fleet." Capt. Sainty said that outside of four days coming up from San Pedro
to Victoria the weather was wonderful.
"We had a glorious passage across the Atlantic, through the West Indies and as far as San Pedro. Off the California coast, however, we had to buck
heavy head winds but the ship stood up beautifully and rode through heavy seas smoothly in spite of the fact that we had no cargo."

The Norah left Glasgow on December 20, and made four stops en route to Victoria.
That the new steamer would popularize the West Coast tourist route in the summer months was the opinion of all who saw her this morning. With plenty of deck space and specially constructed to withstand rough weather
she should be very popular on the run.
Wide promenade decks are built fore
and aft and the whole of the boat

BANK OF COMMERCE RENOVATIONS GET STARTED AT ONCE

A preliminary permit in connection with the reconstruction of the vaults and ground floor accommodation of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at 1023 Government
Street, was taken out at the City Hall to-day for the first portion of the work, estimated to cost $15,000.
The entire plan will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. H. Cat-terall is in charge of the work.
C. P. Hill, at 724 Esquimalt Road, has filed a permit for the addition of a conservatory to his residence
facing on the Inner Harbor in Victoria West.

"How far is this ruling going to go?
You, comrades, must say."

TEAR BOMB THROWN
The meeting broke up in disorder,
with some attempting to continue the proceedings and the manager of the theatre ordering those present to leave.
The police were called upon to enforce the order. A woman was shouting to the police, "I am not leaving until the order is rescinded." She was taken into custody and charged with disorderly conduct. She was taken into custody and charged with disorderly conduct. She was taken into custody
and charged with disorderly conduct.
Approximately 1,500 persons attended the meeting.

FARMERS MAY QUIT INQUIRY

Saanich Secessionists Want Inquiry Limited in Scope
and Cost

Judge P. S. Lampman Orders
Adjournment Until Friday
After Argument To-day

When Judge P. S. Lampman,
Commissioner inquiring into Saanich affairs, opened proceedings this morning at the Court House,
C. H. O'Halloran stopped progress
by asserting that 750 farmers, seeking disincorporation, would take no part in the inquiry unless guaranteed against expense for witnesses. He also asked assurances that the inquiry would first deal exclusively with matters relevant to the petition for secession. Other matters could be inquired into later when the farmers would not attend. An adjournment was granted until Friday morning at 11 o'clock, when the Commissioner will give his ruling, and the view of the Government presented on the points of expense.

After His Honor had read his commission, H. J. Davis, appeared as commissioner counsel, A. J. Patton and H. O'Halloran represented the petitioners for disincorporation, and E. L.
Tait appeared for the municipal council.

SEVERE RESTRICTIONS
Suggestions as to procedure being invited by the Commissioner, Mr.
O'Halloran asked adjournment for one week, on grounds that his clients wished to apply for restriction of the inquiry to matters complained of
in the petition for disincorporation,
which was presented to the Government by 750 farmers of northern Saanich.

He also requested that the expense of an independent expert witness, to be brought by his clients, should be considered an expense of the commission.
FIFTH STEP
"The 750 farmers of Saanich who have signed the disincorporation petition represent an assessment of over $2,000,000. They have borne the cost of the inquiry, including the preliminary to this hearing, including legislation. This is the fifth important step," Mr. O'Halloran pointed out.
"The nature of this commission may cause proceedings lasting three weeks.
There are many matters included,
which are valuable in the general interest, and expert witnesses may be required upon many points."

Anti-Rum Vote $24,000,000

Washington, Jan. 23.—The President of the United States will have $24,000,000 during the coming year
to use in an attempt to enforce prohibition more strictly. If the plans of the Senate are carried out.

The prospective appropriation, voted yesterday by the Senate, still must be approved by the House and President Coolidge and, if this is forthcoming,
the expenditure of the money is expected to fall to the lot of Herbert Hoover because of the short time remaining before March 4.

TO DIVIDE FUND
The only restrictions placed upon the executive in the use of the $24,- 000,000 would be that he must allocate the money to departments and bureaus of the departments which have a part in the enforcement of the dry law. He would be able to use all or part of the money as he might see fit.

Wheat Total Sets Record

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—Canada's yield of wheat for the year 1928 was 533,571,700 bushels. This is the highest on record and the first time Canada harvested a crop of more than half a billion bushels.
This announcement was made in a crop report issued this afternoon
by the Bureau of Statistics.

IS COMMISSIONER

JUDGE P. S. LAMPMAN Inquiry into Saanich municipal affairs, opened this morning at the Court House.

Smelter Plan, Utility Control Features of Government Programme

That the Tolmie Government
plans to assist the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company to establish a steel industry in connection with its Trail Smelter is the general belief among members of the Legislature, following the brief announcement
in the Speech from the Throne
yesterday that the House would be asked to consider legislation
"to give assistance to the establishment of the iron and steel industry in this Province."

The legislation which will follow
this announcement, it is expected,
will provide for some form of bounty
on steel to assist the Consolidated to go ahead with the steel-making plant which it has had under consideration for many years. The legislation will be introduced shortly and with it
the Government will be expected to make some explanation of the precise scheme
which it proposes to aid.
Significance is given to the announcement in the Speech by the fact that Premier Tolmie conferred with heads of the Canadian Pacific Railway, close associate of the Consolidated, in Montreal recently, and on his return,
hinted that smelting and mining matters had been considered.

WATER BOARD PLAN
The next most important announcement in the Throne speech was that
"in view of the growing importance of public utilities, the question of the advisability of providing some measure of stricter control in respecting the consideration of any Government."

PLANES MAY JOIN SEARCH

Jericho Beach Machine Is Ready to Look For Missing
West Vancouver Youth

West Vancouver, Jan. 23.—A new clue was uncovered this morning
in the search for Arthur Crawford, West Vancouver, who has been missing since he went hiking on Hollyburn Ridge last Sunday morning.

A little girl named Dodds told Constable Wilson of the local police that a party of girls had told her they had seen a hiker with an injured leg on Hollyburn Ridge Sunday. The police are now trying to find the party of girls in order to question.

There is a possibility a seaplane
from the Jericho station may again be sent across the mountains to try and spot Crawford from the air.

At dawn to-day search parties left the Hollyburn air camp to test the last hope that Crawford might be found alive. As they started across the fresh crisp snow there was still no clue to his trail.

COLD FORCES PREMIER TO REMAIN HOME

Premier Tolmie will be confined to his home for a day or two by a cold contracted yesterday at the opening of the Legislature, when he stood on the steps of the Parliament Buildings bareheaded
to greet Lieutenant-Governor Bruce. It is expected Attorney-General Pooley will lead the House in his chief's absence.

Death Toll Is Nineteen

Bellevue, Ohio, Jan. 23.—The death toll of yesterday's crash between a Lake Shore Electric interurban car and a bus mounted to nineteen to-day with the death of Richard Freeman, thirty,
of Cleveland.

House Is Made Ready For King

Sovereign Expected to Go
From London to the Sussex
Coast Soon

London, Jan. 23.—It was officially stated at Buckingham Palace this morning that King George's progress was being maintained.

It was not expected any further bulletin would be issued before to-morrow night.

PREPARE FOR JOURNEY
London, Jan. 23.—Preparations were going forward to-day for the removal of King George to Bognor, in Sussex,
as soon as his physicians decide the time is opportune. The King will travel by the south coast route to the south coast resort in a large car, fitted so he can lie as comfortably as in his bed in Buckingham Palace.

Craigwell House is a large, comparatively modern white stone building,
handsome, but not on palatial lines.
Since Sir Arthur Du Cros bought it fifteen years ago, he is reputed to have spent $1,000,000 improving the property and equipment.

The work being done for the King's arrival includes connecting Craigwell House with Buckingham Palace by telephone, arranging for a large staff
of royal servants, and transferring a quantity of linen, tableware and other domestic equipment. It is believed the King's special room will be in one of the wings from which he will get a view of the sea through the pine trees,
which are a feature of the secluded grounds of twenty-two acres. In these grounds the King will be able to exercise, sheltered from all winds except the warm south wind.

Failure of the King to increase his weight, noted by his doctors, has shown the path to recovery will be a long one.

It is not expected the King will make the journey to Sussex before a fortnight hence.

CHIEF JUSTICE HUNTER TO WED

License Taken Out in Seattle
Yesterday For Marriage to Miss Eleanor K. Morden

Seattle, Jan. 23.—Chief Justice Gordon Hunter of Victoria, sixty-five, and Miss Eleanor K. Morden of Shawnaigan
Lake, forty-nine, obtained a marriage license here yesterday.
Had it not been for the failure of the chief justice to bring a witness with him when he applied for the license his application would probably have passed unopposed. But as it was he objected to the suggestion of the marriage license clerk that he get a bell boy from his hotel to act as witness. Miss Morden then volunteered the information that Mr. Hunter had been chief justice of the British Columbia
supreme court since 1902.

Steady Snow Fall Looked For In City

City in For Good Taste of Winter But Snow May Turn
to Rain

With snow falling steadily in the city and the temperature low in areas on all sides, there was no end
in sight at noon for the precipitation which commenced this morning shortly before 8 o'clock.

Up to noon to-day, about 3 inches of snow had fallen at Gonzales Heights, according to F. Napier Denison of the Meteorological Observatory. In the down-town section the fall seemed a little heavier.
A sudden drop in temperature last night was responsible for the snow. The mercury falling to seventeen degrees,
the lowest point recorded here this winter. The recording on the instruments on Gonzales Heights was 24 degrees at the lowest point, but at the foot of the hill, the temperature was down to the lower mark.

TASTE OF WINTER
"We seem to be in for a good taste of winter," said Mr. Denison this morning. "Up to now we have escaped any serious cold or snow, but owing to the fact that it is cold in Seattle, Vancouver and all points around the city,
it is impossible to say just how soon
there will be any relief from this fall."

A light wind was blowing to-day
from the southeast, and it was thought that a possible shift in the wind to south would cause a rise in temperature
and the snow would turn into rain.

VANCOUVER AREA HAS SNOWFALL

Cold Wave Sweeps State of Washington; Snow Deep-
at Points

Vancouver, Jan. 23.—Setting a new low record for this winter, the mercury dropped to 17 degrees above zero in Vancouver at 3 a.m. to-day. The previous lowest of the season was 20
above zero.

At 11:30 this forenoon snow had started to fall heavily, the first of the winter.
COLD IN WASHINGTON
Seattle, Jan. 23.—Seattle was feeling
the coldest weather since December 30, 1927, to-day while other cities in the state reported correspondingly low temperatures.

Early to-day the mercury had hit its lowest point for the winter, 18 degrees above zero. A thermometer at Boeing Field, south of the city, recorded 14 degrees above.
Ellensburg reported the coldest weather of any point in the state, the mercury there plunging to 16 degrees below zero. This morning it was nine below zero at Ellensburg, where the snow is ten inches deep.

Walla Walla was chilled by the coldest weather of the winter last night, the thermometers showing a half degree above zero.

TROOPS WITHDRAWN
Shanghai, Jan. 23.—The United States transport Henderson arrived
here from Tientsin to-day with 600
United States Marines. This marked the withdrawal of the last of the marines from North China.

Searching Vessel Finds No Trace of British Steamship Teesbridge and It Is Believed Crew of Thirty Lost; Expected Ss. America Will Take Crew Off Ss. Florida; Tanker Dannedake Heading for Ber- muda, Using Jury Rudder

New York, Jan. 23.—The storm-lashed Atlantic to-day was believed to have claimed one ship and its crew, while another freighter that had been in distress was attempting to make Bermuda under its own steam, with a jury rudder, and a rescue ship was expected to be alongside another freighter in distress at 6 o'clock this evening, New York time.

The freighter believed lost was the British Steamship Teesbridge. The ship headed for Bermuda is the United States tanker Dannedake. The other vessel is the United States freighter Florida.

The Teesbridge carried a crew of thirty men.

CITY LANDS OFFICE IS UNDER FIRE

Reorganization of City Lands Department Now Being Considered

Reorganization of the City
Lands Department, with a reduction of operating costs, and the possible elimination of the office
on Fort Street, is said to be under consideration at the City Hall, as one of the first changes to be considered by Mayor Herbert A. Hogan in regard to the operation of civic departments.

Members of the council close to the Mayor assert that the whole policy
of the operation of the City Lands
Department will come under review
shortly. Meanwhile an investigation is proceeding under the Mayor into the
costs of operating the Fort Street
office, and the results obtained there
since its inception.

STRAIGHT SALARY
The abolition of commissions, and
the substitution of a straight salary
basis for the City Lands commissioner is said to be one of the points under consideration. The office is at present operated under a Kirkpatrick-Crockett, City Lands commissioner, who is on salary and commission, with two

Hance Logan Named Senator

Takes Seat in Ottawa Chamber Made Vacant By Death
of Hon. W. B. Ross

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—Hance J. Logan, former Liberal member for Cumberland, N.S., in the House of Commons, has been appointed to the Senate, filling the vacancy in that body caused by the death of Hon. W. B. Ross, who was leader of the Conservatives in the Senate.
Announcement of the appointment
was made at Premier King's office
to-day.

Hance J. Logan was born at Amherst Point, Nova Scotia, April 26, 1869, and was educated at the Model School at Truro and at the Pictou Academy and graduating from Dalhousie University, Halifax. As a young man he practiced as a barrister, eventually becoming senior member of the law firm,
Logan, MacKenzie and Smiley of Amherst, Nova Scotia. In 1891 he married Eleanor L. Kinder, who died in 1899. He again married in 1921, making Anna Blanche MacKenzie his wife.
Mr. Logan was first returned in the general election of 1896, having the distinction of being the first Liberal to enter the House of Commons from the constituency of Cumberland. After being twice re-elected, in 1900 and 1904,
he retired from political life in 1908,
but returned to the field in 1921, when he was elected by a majority of 5,365
over Lieutenant-Colonel Burt, Conservative, and by 6,888 over James A. Mc-Kinnon, Progressive. His majority was the largest ever given to a candidate
during a general election in Nova Scotia.

In 1924 he visited the West Indies
as a special Canadian commissioner on trade relations.

APPROACHES DISABLED SHIP

New York, Jan. 23.—The steamship America reported by radio at 11 o'clock
this forenoon that she was so close to the disabled freighter Florida that the latter's wireless signals were very strong. The liner President Harrison previously had reported she could not find the Florida.

The America said the tanker Dannedake, also in distress in the same general vicinity, 800 miles east off the Virginia Capes, had set up a jury rudder rig and was attempting to make Bermuda
under her own steam.

The messages from the President
Harrison and the America were received at the Chatham, Mass., station
of the Radio Marine Corporation.

NIGHT SEARCH
The former vessel's report had said
she and the German freighter York,
third of the rescue ships which put out for the two crippled vessels when their distress became known yesterday, had been unable to find the Florida.

Members of the council close to the Mayor assert that the whole policy
of the operation of the City Lands
Department will come under review
shortly. Meanwhile an investigation is proceeding under the Mayor into the
costs of operating the Fort Street
office, and the results obtained there
since its inception.

STRAIGHT SALARY
The abolition of commissions, and
the substitution of a straight salary

Thomaston, Conn., Jan. 23.—Three persons killed and five passengers injured when a local train from Waterbury to Winsted over the New York,
New Haven and Hartford Railroad was derailed at Castle Bridge, several miles north of here, this morning. Those killed were Wilson Burns, engineer; P.
J. Shortall, fireman, and an unidentified passenger.

SMOKERS IN HIGH SCHOOLS FACE TESTS

Saskatoon, Jan. 23.—In order to obtain an estimate of the effect of smoking on girl students, a survey will be made in one of the Saskatoon colleges. A personal survey was made by the principal of the schools among the boys and his conclusions are that the majority of the best students among the boys are non-smokers and a large majority of the poorer students are smokers.

SETTING OF FILM AT THE COLISEUM LAID IN FRANCE

In one of his finest roles since attaining stardom in movieland, John Gilbert is playing the leading role in "Honor First," the Fox picture which is the feature screen attraction at the Coliseum Theatre all this week. Gilbert has a dual role in this film and according to screen critics who have seen the picture, he is at his best. The settings of the story are laid in France during and immediately following the Great War and scenes of Paris are well defined as the story unfolds itself on the screen. Hence Adoree has the role of a beautiful woman of the great French city and does her setting admirably, lending fine support to Gilbert.

Besides this splendid film, other attractions at the Coliseum this week include Harold Lloyd in one of his funniest releases, a picture entitled "Speedy." The King of Fun, as he is often referred to, is keeping Coliseum audiences this week in uproars of laughter from the beginning to the end of the story. Showing current events in all parts of the world, Hearst's International News also has a prominent part in this week's entertainment. Lester Smith's concert orchestra rounds out a most enjoyable evening.

SAMMY COHEN IS LEADING PLAYER AT PLAYHOUSE

If you want to get a fine background for the stage, try your wits at furniture salesmanship. This is the best training in the world.

Sammy Cohen, Fox Film player, speaking.

"And I think I should know," says Cohen, between sobs of "Homesick" at Fox Films West Coast Studio. "I sold furniture, and what have you, for a long time before I deserted the salesroom for the legitimate stage."

"In salesmanship you meet all kinds of people, hear all sorts of argument, and form all the ideas imaginable about humans, their inhibitions and their ways of living. If it is the actor's business to interpret life, what better contact could he wish? It broadened my sympathies and gave me a great liking for comedy. Believe it or not, there's where I got some cooking comedy eggs." "Homesick" is now being shown at the Playhouse Theatre.

NILS ASTHER AND LEATRICE JOY IN COLUMBIA STORY

Lovers of virtue screen plays are cautioned not to miss seeing Leatrice Joy in her latest De Mille star picture, "The Blue Danube," at the Columbia Theatre to-day. Nils Asther is leading man and Joseph Schildkraut has an exceptionally strong part. The picture is said to be packed with drama, thrills and wholesome comedy.

MIRTH MARKS GARDEN BILL

Popular Crystal Garden Players Will Present Two Comedies on Friday Night

Acclaimed as the funniest farce ever written, "Our Dogs," a one-act comedy, is the headline of a double bill which will be presented by the talented Comedians at the Crystal Garden on Friday.

"Our Dogs" is said to be funnier than "Charley's Aunt." It is one of the latest plays presented on the Paris and London stages and has a distinct Parisian flavor. The discriminating theatre public of both metropolises were delighted with the comedy.

A simple misunderstanding—the sort of misunderstanding anybody might entertain—was taken by Stanley Bell, the playwright, and made the basis of a hilariously funny plot.

A Legge-Willis will play the part of Mrs. Legge-Willis, the Lady. Major W. Taylor, the Fisherman; Captain Punnett, the Keeper, and Major F. Howden, the Husband.

JOLSON SINGS ON VITAPHONE HERE AT THE DOMINION

One of the most exciting scenes in Warner Brothers' production, "The Jazz Singer," now at the Dominion Theatre, starring Al Jolson on the Vitaphone, is that of Coffee Dan's theatrical restaurant in San Francisco. A unique feature of Coffee Dan's is the fact that each guest is supplied with a small mallet, like the gavel of a presiding officer. Each new arrival is taken note of, though he be professional, non-professional, or would-be. The proprietor asks each to take his place on the stage and strut his stuff. It is here that Jolson enters, rather down and out, wishing to run away from the parental roof—thinking just a bit wistfully of the songs his father sang in the synagogue, in the old days. He is suddenly recognized by a person who has heard him singing his ragtime songs. Called to the stage he pours out his heart in true Jolsonese fashion. The songs he sings are: "Toot, Toot, Toots," "Good Bye," "He is acclaimed uproariously. These songs are heard over the Vitaphone all this week at the Dominion.

CLARA BOW IS A MODERN FLAPPER AT THE CAPITOL

Edythe Chapman, the most beloved "mother" on the screen, "came home" to the Paramount studio in Hollywood recently.

She "came home," after an absence of two and one-half years, to play the role of Clara Bow's mother in "Three Week Ends." Elinor Glyn's story of the modern flapper, "Three Week Ends" is the new Clara Bow picture which the Capitol Theatre will feature for the last time to-day.

Miss Chapman's previous appearance in a Paramount picture was with Clara Bow in "The Runaway," under the direction of William de Mille at the old Paramount studios.

STRING QUARTETTE WARMLY PRAISED BY MUSIC CRITIC

Hart House Players to Give Recital at Empress Hotel Saturday

Lavish praise of their playing was accorded the Hart House string quartette by the music critics of Vancouver at the recent recital. This famous string quartette from Toronto will appear in recital at the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening at 8.15, under the auspices of the National Council of Education, this marking its first appearance in Victoria.

R. J. Jameson, the critic of The Vancouver Daily Province, in his critique of their recital, says:

"revealing the sterling qualities which have established it as among the foremost chamber music organizations now before the public, the famous Hart House String Quartette—Geza de Kossuth, violin; Harry Adaskin, second violin; Milton Blackstone, viola, and Boris Hambourg, cello—delighted a capacity gathering of music-lovers in one of its admirable recitals Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Women's Musical Club."

"There was an occasion for much rejoicing and for the reason that the most aristocratic form of the musical art is not exploited in these parts as often as it ought to be. The Hart House organization fortunately is entitled to be accepted as the ideal string quartette. It is an association of highly-competent artists who have developed an unusual technical equipment and an intimate understanding of the music they seek to interpret. It would be difficult to find anywhere a more thoroughly responsive ensemble which has every right to feel proud of its artistic triumphs."

"The finest achievement of the afternoon was provided in the performance of the famous Schubert 'Quartet in D Minor.' The various movements therein were invested with interpretative distinction, elegance of phrasing, surety of rhythm, technical neatness and unflinching beauty of tone. Of special import was the slow movement and the succeeding variations which were noteworthy for mastery of treatment."

"In a Suite based on French-Canadian folk songs from the pen of a highly-promising young English composer, Miss Wyatt Fargher, the quartet was heard to advantage in a lighter mood, while better still, Borodin's 'Nocturne,' and the exhilarating finale from the Dohnanyi 'Quartet in A Minor' were given with transcendental effect. The charming melody and harmonic design of the Nocturne was projected with superlative interpretative beauties, while the Hungarian composer's music, suggestive of American 'Jazz' and 'Blues,' was given with characteristic dash and spirit."

VICTORIA CHOR SCORES SUCCESS

First Concert of Male Singers Wins Responsive Audience

Enthusiasm, pride of membership and achievement, combined with an enthusiastic spirit of comradeship are characteristics of the Victoria Male Choir.

Only established since the Fall of 1927 its triumphs at the Victoria and Vancouver music festivals are well known on the Coast and its high standing in the capital city is unquestioned and a choral power to the community.

First concert since its organization, then in the auditorium of the High School last night, was greatly anticipated and was greeted by a large, enthusiastic, and responsive audience. The occasion, too, has its significance as it marks the growth and progress of choral work in the city which now compares with similar accomplishment in the larger music centres of the Dominion or for that matter on this continent.

The choir well-maintained its early achievements and there is no denying the delightful proceedings throughout the evening in a programme rich in contrasts and splendidly designed to display its several talents and admirable renditions of its singers.

THREE LOVE SONGS.

It opened with a group of three love songs, "I Loved a Lass" (George Lyson), "Sylvia" in which the pianissimo were exquisitely attained, and the contrasting spirited "Swanee Town," a Hampshire folk song given with merry and rhythmic swing. The three numbers that followed were "The Cossack" (S. Montuski), with its soft opening, "In the Moonlight," and gradual increasing tones "Mother, Hear Me," and again diminishing "Oh! The Death Song" were veritable choral patterns so well prepared and executed under its conductor's baton, Frederick King, by this painstaking body of singers, "Rise, Sleep No More" (H. J. Stewart), descriptive of life and life-like, and the magnificent setting of Cyril Jenkins "The Assyrian Came Down," in which there was much that was accomplished, the pianissimo once more being quite admirably done. The choir's diction—an outstanding feature—was quite delightful, too. The second part opened

RARE ENVELOPES NO NEW CHIEF OF POLICE FOR ST. BONIFACE

Four Covers Bearing Handwriting of Queen Victoria to Be Sold at Bazaar

Four envelopes inscribed with the handwriting of Queen Victoria have been presented for sale at the seventieth anniversary exhibition and bazaar for the new cathedral on February 6 to 9. These valuable curios were donated to the Young People's and Children's committee for disposal during the affair by an Island resident, and will no doubt draw much attention while the bazaar is in progress.

Three of the envelopes are stamped and addressed to "Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, St. James's Palace, London," while the other bears the inscription, "The Lady Geraldine Somerset, St. James's Palace, London," and is marked "By Royal Messenger."

In addition to these letters the committee in charge of this department of the bazaar will have on view one of the world's best collections of stamps of British Columbia, including rare postmarks and specimens of forgeries. Rev. F. A. Ramsey, who will convene this committee, will also have good collections of other Canadian stamps, Canadian local air mail stamps and covers, as well as specimens of British Empire stamps issued in 1928. Among these will be some from Cayman Islands and Newfoundland.

D'ABERNON'S MEMOIRS ARE PUBLISHED

Ex-Ambassador of Britain to Germany Gives Estimates of Living Statesmen

London, Jan. 23 (By Thomas T. Channon, London Manager of the Canadian Press).—There was a time, not so long ago, when no statesman or diplomat would have dreamed of permitting his memoirs to see the light of day until at least several years after his death. In "An Ambassador of Peace," published yesterday by Hodder & Stoughton, Viscount d'Abernon, British Ambassador to Germany from 1920 till 1926, gives the public the fruits of his own diary.

"If this rapid publicity offends against the old canons of good taste," Viscount d'Abernon says, "there is nothing in the book which is other than beneficial to the cause of peace and to the maintenance of a high moral standard among sovereigns and statesmen."

The best reading in the book, especially d'Abernon's studies of Lloyd George, the Earl of Balfour and Marquis Curzon.

LLOYD GEORGE'S COURSE
Of Mr. Lloyd George and his attitude toward European conferences, Viscount d'Abernon says:

"His mental alertness and his readiness for finding appropriate words to support an argument protected him from the usual weakness of English negotiators, namely, a propensity to concur in views of others partly from good nature and partly from indolence."

Referring to the Earl of Balfour, the author writes:

"I have known no less than eleven Prime Ministers of England, and for detachment and adroitness Balfour was unequalled, a mind of the highest quality, an attitude towards life attained only by the truly philosophic, a charm both for men of taste and women of refinement which has rarely been equalled or approached."

ESTIMATE OF CURZON
Viscount d'Abernon's estimate of Lord Curzon starts with the assertion that he was born grandiloquent.

"Curzon's unique achievement," he says, "was to combine dignity with humor."

"One of his friends said he gave orders to footmen in language which would not have disgraced Cicero addressing the Roman Senate, and he occasionally called the servants 'sir' by name, but by the title of their station, saying, 'Housemaid throw wide the casement' or 'Footman, add fuel to the flame.'"

The author speaks gravely enough, however, of what he calls Lord Curzon's "catastrophic disappointment" when he missed the premiership, followed by intense mortification at Sir Austen Chamberlain's appointment to the Foreign Office.

"The surgeon's explanation of Marquis Curzon's death," he writes, "was internal hemorrhage. The deeper cause was a double case of mortification and disappointment. In a world where such injustice was possible, where fate was so malignant, there could be no joy and no contentment in living."

FARMERS MAY QUIT INQUIRY

THROW UP HANDS

"It will be preferable to clear up matters relevant to the petition, and later inquire into other matters, in which we will not appear. If the petitioners are forced to face the full burden of three weeks of proceedings here, and also provide expensive witnesses, I am instructed to advise you that my clients would have to throw up their hands."

"We have been to the Parliament Buildings this morning on the matter, and would ask an adjournment pending a ruling," said Mr. O'Halloran.

E. L. Tait stated that the municipality was prepared to proceed forthwith, and remarked, "My friend finds himself on the horns of a dilemma, he has started something which he cannot finish."

Mr. O'Halloran warmly protested. "We can finish what we started, that was the plea for disincorporation."

FACTS IN TRUE LIGHT

Mr. Tait continued: "The municipality is interested to have the facts in true light. That is the whole of our interest. It will be found that we are in full agreement on many points."

He suggested that the hearing proceed on such matters as area of the districts, inhabitants, expenditures enjoyed by each section and the tax contributions, and urged "all Sanich wants this matter settled quickly."

Mr. Tait pointed out that the basic question was "has one section of the community been persistently subjected to unfair charges?" and considered no restriction should be imposed upon the powers of the commissioner.

"Your hands should not be fettered in proposing any remedy for the general benefit of the community," he protested.

Mr. O'Halloran asked: "How do these matters affect the issue of disincorporation raised by us?"

WANT QUEST NARROWED

Commissioner Lampman asked Mr. O'Halloran: "Your point is, you do not want to take part in wider questions?" and was answered affirmatively.

Mr. Tait believed that a fair solution would settle everything and Mr. O'Halloran reiterated: "The instructions given Mr. Patton and myself are that, if we are to go ahead in this tremendous investigation without assurance against vast expenses, we must throw up our hands, much to our regret."

The Commissioner asked: "Why not go ahead now with what you are interested in?"

Mr. O'Halloran explained that he wanted to present evidence by an independent witness expert in taxation, provided his clients would be freed of the cost involved. He intimated the unnamed witness had appeared on behalf of many taxpayers' associations in other parts of Canada, and had thereby acquired wide familiarity with such matters. "Whether he can be termed expert or not is another matter," he said.

Judge Lampman suggested adjournment to Friday instead of for a week, remarking that Summer would arrive before a conclusion if long adjournments were permitted.

LOST INDEFINITELY
H. H. Orist or Ward Seven was accorded permission to present evidence of over-assessment of farm land in the urban wards and G. H. Hedger spoke to similar points as counsel for W. Rowlands.

Mr. O'Halloran complained: "This is just a sample of what is bound to happen. This Commission will last indefinitely."

Adjournment until Friday at 11 o'clock, was then conceded by Commissioner Lampman.

leen and Princess Marguerite. The main observation room is constructed with large plate glass windows on three sides and furnished simply but comfortably with wicker furniture. Artistic lighting arrangements and plenty of mirrors add to the luxuriousness of the lounge.

SMOKING-ROOM
The smoking-room which is aft from the lounge is built comfortably with large alcoves of paneled oak set with leather settees, and small card tables. Lighting in this room has also been well looked after and there is plenty of window space looking out on to the boat deck.

The dining-room will comfortably seat 100 passengers at tables for eight, ten and twelve. It is a spacious room and has plenty of light. The kitchens off the dining-room are the latest in marine architecture and are equipped with all modern culinary devices.

The large reception hall at the forward end of the main deck is laid out in oak flooring and white and gold panelling. A large space is reserved for dancing and comfortable chairs and settees are furnished in this hall. Large mirrors and dainty wall brackets lend charm to the reception ballroom.

FINE STATE-ROOMS
The state-rooms are among the finest on any of the steamers on the coast. There is accommodation for 170 first-class passengers in spacious rooms of two berth each. Besides these there are four suites de luxe, beautifully furnished. Two of them are done in bird's eye maple and the other two in mahogany and gold. Twin brass beds are provided as well as large baths and showers. Dressing tables, full length mirrors, large clothes closets and side brackets are also features of these rooms.

ELECTRIC FIREPLACES
The other state-rooms are particularly large and comfortable. All of them have large settees which could accommodate a third passenger should the necessity arise. Rooms on the upper deck have showers and electric fireplaces. Most of the rooms on the Norah open onto the interior corridors, but situated on the lower afterdeck are about twelve rooms with doors opening out.

The Norah has a speed of sixteen knots with extra power in reserve. She is driven by triple expansion reciprocating engines. She has a length of 250 feet, a breadth of forty-eight feet, and is of 150 tons deadweight.

It is expected that the new ship will enter drydock shortly for cleaning and painting and that she will then take delivery on the Alaskan run before being placed on the West Coast run.

KING MEETS SHIP
With their usual hospitality the Pacific Salvage Company entertained a small party of Victoria business and transportation men on board the steamer Salvage King this morning when that vessel steamed to William Head to greet the Princess Norah.

In spite of the leaden sky and whirling snow the Norah was sighted riding at anchor in the cove more than two miles away by those on the King. From the distance it could be seen that she was a trim little craft. As the King steamed nearer all those on the ship moved forward where a good view could be had of the new ship.

REGULAR LINER
"She's a regular little liner," commented Capt. J. W. Troup.

"Well," said "Billy" Burns, chief inspector of customs. "I have been present at every welcome to C.P.R. steamers since the Princess Victoria came to the coast more than twenty-five years ago, and I don't suppose that this will be the last ship."

"It will not," Capt. Troup replied, "because if I know anything the company will keep right on building them."

THE SESSION

IT WAS NOT TO BE EXPECTED THAT the Speech from the Throne with which the Lieutenant-Governor opened the Legislature yesterday would foreshadow many departures from custom or policy. The new Government took office less than six months ago and this is its first session. The ministers have not had sufficient time to familiarize themselves with all the detail of their departments. It is true, of course, that the members of the Administration who were candidates a few months ago promised to do certain things for the people of British Columbia if the party to which they belonged were successful at the polls. But such reforms as they considered desirable naturally will take more time to develop than they appeared to think at that time. A few months from now we shall assume that Dr. Tolmie and his colleagues will be in a position to decide what their course will be in many directions.

If the Speech from the Throne is not notable for its wealth of legislative fare, however, it foreshadows discussions upon a number of matters of considerable importance to the province and upon which a good deal of information will be required. It was expected that the Government would deal with the succession duties. The electorate will recall that Dr. Tolmie promised either to abolish this tax altogether or make it as much less onerous as circumstances might permit. He proposes to extend the exemptions under the Act. We shall have to wait for an explanation of what is meant by assistance to the establishment of an iron and steel industry, although it is reported that this has to do with the big industry at Trail. It is proposed to amend the Minimum Wage Act, the Game Act, the Companies Act, and the Public Schools Act. Those familiar with the ways of the local Legislature will suggest that any consideration of amendments to these Acts might easily furnish material for many days of debate. In other words, it is not what appears in the Speech from the Throne which indicates the character of the session, but the controversies which arise over subjects introduced as the House progresses with its business.

We do not know the nature of the plans which the Government proposes to ask the House to approve in connection with its desire for more intensive settlement. Since a larger population, providing it is of the right kind, would mean lower taxation, the people of the province will wish the Administration well in its efforts in this direction. It is gratifying to note that the Speech foreshadows a proposal to establish a Public Utilities Board. This is a matter which demands careful and early consideration. And it is to be hoped the new Government will bear in mind the absolute necessity of finding men to serve on such a body who are thoroughly competent and far removed from any prospect of political interference.

The Speech says the "earnest attention" of the Ministry is being given to the future of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. This is one of British Columbia's most pressing problems and we may expect the House will be asked to discuss it in conjunction with certain proposals which will assume more practical form when the railway lands and the Peace River block have been returned to the province. It would seem that the future of the line will be very closely related to the disposition of these areas. In the Government's advertisement of its latest loan we observe that "the provincial finances are in a satisfactory position," so it is to be expected that the successful policies of the MacLean Administration in this regard will be continued.

The new Government has entered upon its first session at the most auspicious period in the history of the province. The turn of the economic tide which began between four and five years ago has been marked by solid progress in practically every branch of provincial activity since then. Every city and town in British Columbia has been enjoying steady but sure expansion. To that expansion the policies of the Government which served the province for twelve years contributed in a very substantial measure. On that account the public generally will expect Dr. Tolmie and his colleagues to pursue a course which will in no way disturb these prosperous conditions—conditions which constitute their legacy from their predecessors.

THE USES OF SCIENCE

PROFESSOR HARRY ELMER BARNES of Smith College, addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Science, declares that man, instead of being the lord of all creation, is only a "temporary chemical episode" on an insignificant planet which he described as a "celestial juvenile and cosmic dwarf."

This, says Professor Barnes, is clearly proved by modern science, and because of it we must furnish ourselves with an entirely new conception of God.

This sounds a little depressing to those of us who cling to the old-fashioned notions about souls, immortality and so on. However, it is only fair to point out that science has not proved anywhere near as much as Professor Barnes seems to think it has. What he is giving us is not the hard-and-fast conclusions of modern science, but his own opinions.

Often some man of learning surveys the facts and theories which science has produced, draws his own conclusions, and announces these conclusions to the world as facts. There is an intolerance and a dogmatism to it as unpleasant as the intolerance and dogmatism of the medieval theology which the scientists so abhor.

For instance: Professor Barnes has evolved in his mind a new conception of man; therefore he demands a new conception of God. Who needs it? Surely not those of us who fail to see eye to eye with him on his new conception of man. And if he is correct, why should any "temporary chemical episode" need any conception of God at all?

His little speech is valuable, however. It illustrates aptly the double-edged nature of that keen, glistening tool called science. For science, while it is making us rich and free, and is preparing us for the larger life to an extent that would not have been dreamed possible a few decades ago, is also quite capable of cutting out of life some of its highest values, and leaving us far worse off than we were before.

If, just at the moment when it is releasing us from countless old shackles and launching us on a new golden age, science should convince us that we are mere accidents of cosmic chemistry, devoid of souls and doomed to an eternal death after a few brief years of activity—then we should not be beginning a golden age, but an age of great darkness.

Luckily, however, science is not doing anything of the kind. It is presenting us with a tremendous variety of new facts, and to date no one has come forward big enough and far-sighted enough to harmonize and interpret them for us properly. Eventually the poet of the new day will arise, just as it has always happened before. Meanwhile, it might be well to bear in mind that there is a vast difference between the established conclusions of science and the ideas of individual professors.

BUSINESS IN CHINA

AT MONDAY'S SESSION OF THE CONVENTION of the Chinese Nationalist League of Canada, now taking place in Vancouver, it was decided to send eight delegates to Nanking to urge the Chinese Government to complete a trade treaty with Canada and strengthen commercial relations with this country.

Canada's trade with China at the present time is a little less than $20,000,000, with an overwhelming advantage on the side of this country. But this is a very small amount and ought to be increased. The Orient is quickly becoming Occidentalized, particularly in the matter of food and clothing and other commodities peculiar to western custom. The Dominion has only one Trade Commissioner on the spot and one in Japan. Our merchants occasionally send a representative over there to stir up business; but, compared with what the exporters of the neighboring republic are doing to exploit the Oriental market, it looks as if we are falling down on the job.

Would it not be a good idea if some of our British Columbia shippers of goods in demand in China met the delegation which the Chinese Nationalist League proposes to send and either send their own delegation to accompany the League members or co-operate with them in some other way? Canada will have to bestir herself in the Orient if she expects to get the business which should be hers for the trouble of going after it.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE BITTER BIT

The Brooklyn Eagle

Thousands of Britons who have had experience of our tariff ways will chuckle over the plight of an American held at Liverpool for failing to declare several watches in his luggage. We suppose he must have read somewhere that Great Britain was a free trade country. Misinformation is the mother of mischief.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

The New York Sun

Much unnecessary and confusing discussion of this subject would be suggested if it were borne in mind: (a) That the primary purpose of the Monroe Doctrine is protection of the United States and not defence of any other country, such defence being purely incidental in application of the Doctrine; and (b) that in such application of the Monroe Doctrine its fundamental principle is applied for accomplishment of its purpose as circumstances require, in accordance with the altered necessities of a world which is continuously subject to change, and not in obedience to an antique formula unsuited to contemporary needs.

ORGANIZED FOLLY

The Worcester Telegram

(Miss Maude Boyden, the distinguished English woman preacher, says that whereas there are fools in all countries, "America is the only country in which the fools are organized.") Come to think of it, we do have a good many organized fools. Idiots become passionate and thereupon go in for "crusades." The crafty lead the credulous as so much per head into divers and sundry "movements" for the reformation or other alteration of the world. If the fools of Tennessee had not been splendidly organized they never could have staged the Scopes trial. And perhaps our organized fools are superior to the unorganized fools of less discerning countries. "History," said Carlyle, "is red with the blood of the unorganized." But our organized fools show few casualties.

The Bidding: South bids one heart. West bids one spade. North bids two clubs. East passes. South bids two hearts and all pass.
 The Play: West leads King of spades and then Ace of spades. Declarer wins the second trick with 2 of hearts. He now seeks to establish his clubs before drawing trumps. East wins the third trick with Ace of clubs and leads a spade. What card should Declarer now play?

The Error: Declarer trumps with Jack of hearts.
 The Correct Method: Declarer refuses to trump and discards a losing diamond. Opponents are then reasonably sure to lead another spade and Declarer discards another losing diamond. No matter what card opponents now lead, game is assured. If Declarer had trumped the fourth trick, he would have endangered game as he could not have exhausted opponents of trumps which must be divided at least four and three.
 The Principle: As a rule it is inadvisable to permit the strong hand to be forced.

Grain Mixing On St. Lawrence Route To Be Investigated

Regina, Jan. 23—Does inferior United States wheat get mixed by accident or design with the superior Canadian variety en route down the St. Lawrence?

That was a point made in evidence before the Saskatchewan Grain Inquiry Commission here yesterday. It was advanced by Edward McCarthy, miller and farmer of Regina. The degrading of Canadian wheat as it passes through the United States has been the theme of much evidence in the last six weeks, but yesterday was the first time the commission had been warned it should investigate the possibility that part of the trouble British millers experience in getting grades they pay for may be due to mixing by accident or design in Canada with United States grain.

The witness said he had no proof of this, but he wanted "the channels through which United States wheat passes out through Canada to the world markets to be guarded lest there is a mixture to the detriment of the Canadian product."

CLEMENT PLANS TO PUT ALL PRODUCERS ON EQUAL BASIS

Report on Vancouver Milk Situation Tabled in Legislature Yesterday

Dean F. M. Clement's report on the Vancouver milk situation, tabled in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, in brief, recommends the establishment of a committee of direction to control milk distribution and gradually to put all milk producers on a basis of equality.

Re-organization of milk routes, and competition among individual farmers are suggested. The general recognition of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association as wholesale and retail distributors of milk and cream in Vancouver and adjacent municipalities is encouraged by the report.

An official summary of the Clement report explained it as follows: It suggests the creation of a committee of direction to be called the Committee of Direction. It is further suggested that an advisory committee to the Committee of Direction shall consist of representatives of the producers, distributors and consumers, any one of which shall have right of appeal direct to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. The ruling of the Committee of Direction.

The financing of this Committee of Direction would be a direct charge on the industry benefiting, by making a direct assessment per pound milk fat, such charge to be collected through the distributing companies.

This charge, however, is not intended to apply to the producer, but all such would be licensed at a stated rate per producing cow.

The general recognition of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association as wholesale and retail distributors of milk and cream in Vancouver and adjacent municipalities is encouraged by the report. The suggestion is made of efforts to maintain an increasing milk supply, and to the manufacture of its surplus into milk products with development of the market for these products.

The Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association is recognized by the commission as the basis for comparison in matters of efficiency and efficiency. All distributors now in business are conceded by the commission the right to continue and enjoy the same privileges, providing they accept the regulations proposed by the commission. The farmers represented by the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

Encouragement of amalgamation is advocated as a means of reducing the cost of production by consolidating existing distributing dairies to two or three large companies and a number of producer-vendors.

Reorganization of milk routes is suggested with competition on a service basis at fixed prices.

OPEN TO ALL.

The commission suggests that a proportionate share of the fluid milk market be open to all producers inside and outside the T.B.-free area, who can produce standard and quality milk and whose location will permit of delivery for sale in the fluid milk market.

Amendments to the Milk Act are suggested with a view to reducing the maximum bacterial count previous to pasteurization from 1,500,000 to 800,000 at end of third year after the regulations are brought into effect.

Competition among individual farmers is suggested in the report as a means of placing emphasis on quality production and uniform production, also by stressing lower production costs as a basis of costs.

The commission consisted of Dean F. M. Clement, B.S.A., M.A., of the Faculty of Agriculture, University of British Columbia, who acted as chairman; Dr. H. W. Hill, Director of Laboratories, University of British Columbia; and George E. Hancox, barrister-at-law, of Vancouver.

Across the Bay

A new session, a new Parliament and a new chapter in provincial politics opened across James Bay yesterday. It opened with a pageantry which James Bay has not known since pre-war days, and with an air of public expectation which few British Columbia parliamentarians have ever excited. It opened with the boom of heavy guns, martial music and bay uniforms outside in Parliament Square and with what changes inside the Legislative Chamber!

Everything was different from what we have grown accustomed to since the long Liberal regime commenced both in 1915. The war was in the darkest hours then, there was no room for anything but the barest ceremonies and the old Government starting under this shadow, continued in modest style to the end.

Yesterday all the pomp which British parliaments have accumulated since the Witenagemot of Saxon times was revived in miniature. There was a guard of blue-clad tars from Esquimaux, who nearly froze in the north wind, and another from the Canadian Scottish, whose kilt left their knees blue in the sharp cold. There was a gubernatorial guard of thirty officers in scarlet and gold braid and many medals. And as the Assembly waited for His Honor to appear the great stone buildings seemed to rock from the booming salute of fifteen guns, which really boomed this time. A similar salute had always been recorded officially at other openings, but no one has ever heard it before.

The House itself was full of distinguished and undistinguished visitors, of new members and old members, and for those who have known it in other days, of memories of the past. In the first seat of the front bench it seemed after those twelve years, during which it hardly seemed to change at all. We have already passed one full session, and the House is now in its second year. The House is now in its second year. The House is now in its second year.

In the first seat of the front bench it seemed after those twelve years, during which it hardly seemed to change at all. We have already passed one full session, and the House is now in its second year. The House is now in its second year. The House is now in its second year.

At the Premier's right was Mr. Shelly as guardian of the Treasury, and behind him the remainder of a well-dressed Cabinet, immaculate in cut-away coats, spats, grey ties and an air of utter blamelessness.

Across the way everything was upside down as if the old House had played a game of general solitaire. Big Three of the Opposition, Mr. Pattullo, flanked on his right by Mr. Manson, and on his left by Capt. Mackenzie, breathed first the air of a new order, and then the air of opposition and for the first time gazed upon the left cheek of Mr. Speaker. Mr. Manson had Mr. Hinchin's old seat, Capt. Mackenzie had succeeded to the place of Mr. Jones with an evident desire to be up and at 'em, and Mr. Pattullo sat bolt upright in his place where Mr. Pooey used to sit, backwards in his chair, and where Mr. Bowser before him sat in gloomy state.

The new Opposition was surrounded by a sea of Conservatives who overflowed the benches to the right and took up almost half the other side as well. In this flood, such malwart Tories as Colonel G. Peck, Colonel Fred Lister and old Mike Manson found themselves washed up high and dry on the Liberal sands, behind Mr. Pattullo's cohorts.

A wise precaution, however, distinguished those who were on the left of Mr. Speaker by conviction and those for lack of conviction. Mr. Pooey, who prides himself on his garden, had prudently presented every Conservative with a yellow primrose, grown out of dooms as a symbol of the new order, and as the emblem of true-blue Conservatism, chosen originally by no less a personage than Disraeli himself. Every lapel on Mr. Speaker's right was so adorned, the sprinkling of primroses on the left also clearly marked the vast gulf of political principle between their wearers and the unashamed, flowerless Liberals.

That was the strangely new background against which the twentieth century Parliament of British Columbia sprang to resplendent life. Everything proceeded like clockwork. The Governor arrived, declined to say any until the Assembly had elected a Speaker, and retired. The Assembly elected Mr. Jones, who had been sitting in a back seat with an air of detachment as if he had no expectation of any preferment whatever. Mr. Jones accepted with surprise and modesty and the Governor returned.

Mr. Jones, having by a lucky chance provided himself beforehand with black robes, a three-cornered hat and

They Keep Him in Best of Condition

"My husband had a very heavy job, far too heavy, in fact, but I found that by using Dodd's Kidney Pills regularly that he kept in fine condition," writes Mrs. F. Waters, 93 Winnert Street, Woodstock, Ont. "I could mention several cases that I know of, particularly one of a blacksmith, where Dodd's Kidney Pills saved him from an operation. We wouldn't be without a box in the house." Rest may give temporary relief, but Dodd's help remove the cause of the pain.

A judicial collar, informed His Honor that he was quite unworthy of the Speakership but had taken it on anyway, and he hoped he would do his best and if anything went wrong would His Honor please blame Mr. Jones and not the Assembly, even if, as probable, it were the Assembly's fault?

His Honor read his speech from the Throne and the Cabinet leaned forward in their seats with wrapt attention, as if they had not written, rewritten, erased and written again the entire address. The Conservative members appeared impressed.

Mr. McKenna solemnly moved that if any honorable member had been elected improperly the House would proceed against him with utmost severity, and the House agreed to this gruesome threat as it always does, seeing that it involves no work for anyone.

Mr. Shelly begged to file public accountants. The old Government had a cupboard full of deficits never before suspected. Other ministers begged to file other reports and the Premier was just about to close the day when the Opposition showed for the first time that things could not go on in this merry fashion for long. Mr. Pattullo arose in the middle of the President's speech and the Cabinet looked up with pained surprise. When asked Mr. Pattullo icily, would the Honorable Finance Minister bring down the result of his special audit, which is burrowing into the expenditures of the old Government, this being essential to the comfort of the Opposition and the good of the country? The Honorable Finance Minister showed that he has already grasped the essentials of parliamentary life. He, too, arose and said he would file the desired audit, of course; he would file it as soon as—as soon as possible. And with that point cleared up so definitely, the House adjourned to the Empress Hotel for the hospitality of Premier and Mrs. Tolmie.

Solarium W.A.—The annual general meeting of the Solarium W.A. will be held on Friday at 2:30 at the committee room, Government Street. The lady superintendent will be present and all interested in the work will be welcome.

LOCAL GUIDES WIN NATURE COMPETITION

St. Margaret's School Company Awarded Lieut-Governor's Silver Medal

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor last Spring inaugurated a Nature Competition for Girl Guides in British Columbia to encourage the study of the flora of this Province, the competition opening on March 1 and closing on October 15. Announcement was made of the result, the Third Victoria West Rangers were the winners of the first prize in the Province and receiving the silver medal as well as a handsome copy of "Compendium of the Flora of B.C." by Professor John Davidson of the University of British Columbia, the book being offered as a prize in each district. The competition called for the best copy of the book for being the best in Victoria West district and the First South Saanich Company are awarded the book for this district.

The competition called for the best number of specimens collected skillfully and neatly in mounting, accurate and concise observation. Professor Davidson, the author of the book, conducted the final judging and noted that "some of the companies in their collections displayed skill, taste and patience to a remarkable degree." The First Victoria West Rangers were given great praise for the manner in which their specimens were pressed but lost marks through lack of notes. On the mainland and the Island, the competition was won by the Fourth Point Grey Company, who ran St. Margaret's School a close second.

His Honor will present the medal in person at a date to be announced later.

Vary your dinners with fish and eggs

by Mary Blake

Women—often tell me that their greatest difficulty in meal planning is to get variety into the main dish. It is easy enough to build a dinner, once you have selected the meat, but it takes thought to get away from the obvious round of steaks and chops and roasts.

Why not now and then substitute fish or eggs? By combining either one with milk, you have a dish rich in cream values—proteins, minerals and vitamins. There are any number of delectable ways in which these combinations may be made—omelets of all sorts, creamed eggs, soufflés, creamed tuna, shrimp or lobster, scalloped oysters, salmon soufflé.

You must have a dependable milk supply
In any cooking that calls for milk, I never take chances. I use nothing but Carnation Milk. I know that it is the purest of high grade milk from selected herds. I know that it is rich in cream—doubly so—for it is evaporated to double thickness. I know that I will always find it sweet and good, no matter how large the quantity I have on hand, for it is sterilized for safe-keeping.

I can count on Carnation always for notably delicious results—extra creaminess, velvety smoothness of texture, fragrant delicacy of flavor. The best informed domestic scientists agree that it is not only better in results than ordinary bottled milk, but that it is particularly economical.

Carnation Tuna Fish a la King

2 tbs. butter, 1/2 green pepper shredded, 1 hard-cooked egg, 1/2 cup chopped mushrooms, 2 tbs. flour, 1 cup Carnation Milk, 1 cup water, salt and pepper, 1 1/2 cups tuna fish, 1/2 cup peas, 1/2 cup green pepper and mushrooms in butter until tender (about 10 minutes), keeping covered. Remove mushrooms and pepper and blend flour with butter; add Carnation diluted with water and cook until mixture is thickened, stirring constantly. Place flaked tuna fish, peas, egg, mushrooms and pepper in double boiler; add sauce; cook over hot water 10 minutes. Serve in patty shells or on toast points. Serves 6. Lobster or shrimp may be used in place of tuna.

Baked Eggs a la Carnation

1 1/2 tbs. butter, 1 1/2 tbs. flour, 1/2 tbs. salt, 1/2 tbs. pepper, 1/2 cup Carnation Milk, 1/2 cup water, 4 to 6 eggs, buttered bread crumbs. Make white sauce of butter, flour, seasonings and Carnation diluted with water. Pour into shallow baking dish. Cover sauce with eggs, being careful not to break yolks. Sprinkle buttered bread crumbs over top and bake in moderately slow (325°) oven until eggs are firm. Garnish with parsley.

The Best of Milk

Carnation Milk is simply pure, sweet whole milk, evaporated to double creaminess. Nothing is added; nothing removed but about half the water. Try this dependable, convenient, economical milk.

the mother's despair, her best furniture, provide him with the tools and let him pound to his heart's content.

Just hammering isn't all there is to this urge. A child enjoys hammering wood, and so his mother can choose for him the harmless materials upon which he can work and make it easy enough for him so that he has the necessary satisfaction of success.

It is agreed by all authorities on play materials for children that tools should be of the best quality. A good hammer and saw are preferable to fancy boxes of flimsy tools of all types. The hammer must of necessity be a smaller size and lighter than one Dad could use, but it should be a hammer that does its work well.

Harriet M. Johnson in her "Children in the Nursery School," has described the type of block used satisfactorily for this first venture in hammering. They are described also in "The Catalogue of Play Equipment," Bulletin VIII, published by the Bureau of Educational Experiments, as hollow yard blocks (closed boxes) 4 in. x 10 in. x 10 in., weight three pounds. With this, the child is given a wire nail one inch long with large head. The very small child can hammer this nail into the wood after the point has been started. The older child or one who has done this work for a time can start the point himself. There is the pleasure of hammering a real nail into real wood and obviously in such large hollow blocks the nails are going to be all on the inside when hammered, where they can hurt no one, nor in any way damage the furniture as would happen if the child hammered his nails into a flat piece of wood. I saw a small boy in a nursery school stand for more than an hour and saw strips of soft wood. He did this with the most obvious concentration. Each block that fell off was as great an achievement as the first one. His interest never flagged.

In the home if the parent paid no attention to this natural desire of the child, he might find him sawing away using his father's saw and sawing at the legs of the table.

There are many homes in which a work bench could be fitted up for the boy and keep him busy and happy for hours. Mothers can borrow many useful ideas from the nursery schools to help them through the sometimes trying pre-school period.

A PROMISE FULFILLED

WHEN the New Ford was promised to the motoring public our reputation, established by twenty-three years of undisputed leadership, came to the test. Restrictions as to price, raw materials and labour did not exist. The new car should be a masterpiece—the contribution of its makers to the automotive history of the age. Practical idealism would fashion it into the fleet, sturdy, beautiful car of today.

It was promised. Curtains of rumour and uncertainty cloaked the months. It appeared. One year on the highways of the world proved its speed, power, endurance; one glance, its beauty. The promise is fulfilled.

You have seen Ford cars glide by, moving into traffic, manoeuvring, taking the lead. Now drive one yourself and feel the superabundant power at your command. Any Ford dealer will be glad to give you a demonstration.

If you prefer to buy out of income, you will find the authorized time payment plan offered by all Ford dealers most attractive.

TAXATION RELIEF BILL IS DEBATED

British Commons Rejects Amendment to Government Measure

London, Jan. 23.—The House of Commons last night dealt with the long and complicated Local Government Bill, under which the Government plans to relieve productive industries such as agriculture, mining, manufacturing and transportation, part of their burden of local taxation.

AMENDMENT OFFERED

W. J. Harold Briggs, Conservative member for the Blackpool division of Manchester, announced he had an amendment which would exclude breweries, distilleries and tobacco manufacturers from the benefits of the bill.

He was supported by a small group of Conservatives who urged the Government to accept the amendment. They claimed the adoption of the amendment would treat the principle of the bill which they supported.

Mr. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, who was in charge of the bill for the Government, declined to accept the amendment, however, on the grounds that it was illogical.

The House rejected the Briggs amendment by a vote of 219 to 139. Divisions had been called on two previous amendments, one by Labor and one by the Liberals; but they failed to reach a vote for lack of Opposition tellers. The amendments thus fell to the ground without a poll.

NOT DOLE PLAN

The Local Government Bill, Mr. Chamberlain said, was not a dole to industries. It was a scheme of rating reform. There was therefore no more reason to exempt three particular industries because they were poor, than to exempt other industries which were wholly luxurious.

The subsequent debate saw Lady Astor heard from the Conservative benches and Mrs. Ellen Wilkinson, Middlesbrough East, from the Labor benches, support the motion.

IF RHEUMATIC BEGIN ON SALTS

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry,
Avoid Exposure, Eat
No Sweets

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. (Advt.)

TALKS ON PEACE IMPRESS PUPILS

Rev. Dr. Clem Davies is Envoy For Local League of Nations Society

"War is a Big Goliath that struts forth to hurt the nations and the Prince of Peace wants us to become His soldiers to go out and put an end to his nasty and mean ways," said Rev. Dr. Clem Davies in an address to the children of the Margaret Jenkins School yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Davies has been acting as envoy for the local League of Nations Society to secure recruits for the junior army of peace, called the League of Youth, a section of the League of Nations Society.

"Jesus once said that big folks did not know everything for he stated that some things were revealed to babes," stated Dr. Davies. "By babies He meant the youth of the world which had not received the prejudices of their older friends and relatives."

ALL ABOUT THE WORLD
The world is a big house Dr. Davies told the kiddies and God wanted everybody to live happily together. "We should stretch our hearts wide enough to take in all the world's peoples and all the world. When we love our home we are not supposed to hate other homes. We should not brag about our own country and sneer at other countries," continued Dr. Davies.

"Not only can we have kind thoughts of other nations but we can do practical deeds. By joining the League of Youth we could get to know the point of view of other boys and girls in foreign lands and they could learn about us. We cannot hate people if we know them well. We can read about children in other lands, too. Some boys think that there are no thrilling books but war books and girls have a silly idea that there are no stories interesting but love stories."

"Patriotism and guns do not always go together. All the empires which have been built on swords and guns and bloodshed are gone. God wants his children to live together without fighting all the time. The nations which will not do as God tells them will go down. They can do as they please for a time but not for long. In the end they perish by the sword which they took up against others."

TO DISCUSS ROAD PLANS

to Inquire Into Coast Road
Extension Plans

Duncan, Jan. 23.—The executive of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island has been asked, by the Duncan Chamber of Commerce and the Nanaimo Board of Trade, to discuss the West Coast Road and other highway projects suggested for Vancouver Island.

The following resolution was last night adopted at a joint meeting held at Nanaimo: "That this joint meeting of the Duncan Chamber of Commerce and Nanaimo Board of Trade request the proper officers of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island to call a meeting of the executive to discuss the question of a general road policy for Vancouver Island, particularly as to the advisability of continuing the ocean highway as projected by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, as well as such other business as may come before the meeting."

WITNESSES TELL OF PURCHASES

Defendants in Keyes Trial at Los Angeles Reduced
to Three

Los Angeles, Jan. 23.—Superior Judge Edward I. Butler, at the close of yesterday's session of the conspiracy and bribery trial of former District Attorney Asa Keyes and five co-defendants, dismissed the charges against three of the men, Charles Reimer, Dave Getzoff and Jack Rosenberg.

Judge Butler said he did not consider the evidence against the three men sufficient to convict, and would grant the motion to dismiss the charges against them. The state had closed its case yesterday morning.

Keyes, Ed Rosenberg, formerly a defendant in the Julian Petroleum fraud case, which the state contends was "fixed," and Ben Getzoff, owner of the Spring Street tailor shop in which the conspiracy was culminated, according to the state, continue as defendants.

PURCHASES DESCRIBED

During the forenoon session yesterday the state presented witnesses who testified concerning the ordering by Ed Rosenberg of a radio costing $1,150, the payment for which was made by Ben Getzoff, and of its delivery to the Keyes home.

Previously state witnesses had testified to the purchase by Keyes of alleged conspirators of two automobiles, one valued at $5,380 and the other at $959, golf clubs, an expensive chaise longue, a wrist watch costing $830, and lamps and lamp shades. In addition Jacob Berman, a Julian defendant, who turned state's evidence against Keyes, Getzoff and Rosenberg, told him that "fixing" his case with Keyes through Getzoff had cost him $125,000.

STOCK MARKET — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown &amp; Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Jan. 23.—Wheat market was a broad active affair again today with a large business passing off at all kinds except export business which was said to be practically nil over night or again this morning. The market was nervous and erratic, prices fluctuating within a range of 2½¢. The market broke one cent during the first ten minutes, with some liquidation going on based on the disappointing cables which came only about half higher when due ½¢ up.

On the early break another wave of speculative buying orders developed and prices were carried into new highs for the whole crop year, with Chicago prices up on a level with Winnipeg. The buying was said to be practically all for public account, both local and Eastern.

On the extreme advance to-day Winnipeg may reach 130½¢. However, this bulge was not held, considerable liquidation being in evidence, and very heavy selling by the country where good profits had been secured. This selling could absorb, and prices again declined close to the early low mark with only slight reactions.

The cash wheat market was very slow with foreign importers not following the advance. Just an odd lot of low grades worked from this market. The Orient stopped buying wheat locally there is some demand for the locally produced and spreaders were unchanged. Shippers sold small lots of No. 6 now in the rest Canadian mills. Offerings are not large.

CHAPTER VII

It was about seven o'clock before Mary rode through a partially deserted town towards Coppetts Mill. An hour later the streets would be thronged with the evening crowds, who, refreshed with food, and wearing the garb of the leisured, would be in search of leisure diversions. As she pushed her bicycle through the door in the wall to the side garden a whiff of smoke met her nostrils, and a little ahead, apparently contemplating the potato patch, her father's burly grey-coated figure.

This indicated that they had not waited supper for her. Freeland never smoked immediately before meals.

She gave a little whistle, which caused him to turn his head instantly, and then a smile broke up the gravity of his features and he began to walk towards her. Seen at close quarters, the inflexible nature of his features, the likeness between them was marked. Freeland had the same square head, the firm yet mobile chin, the clear, wavering depth of eyes. His hair was fast greying now, and his shoulders had a slight stoop, partly owing to too much manual labor in extreme youth.

But there was a suggestion of the inflexible purpose, tempered by kindly good will, about Robert Freeland. A man to reckon with, and to whom success, must have come, sooner or later. He had the qualities which ensure success in any walk of life.

"Well, lass, your mother's wondering," he said in his slow Scottish way, "what's kept ye?"

Freeland could speak plenty of what his mother called "the English," but his own tongue was his natural vehicle for expression. To his private life and with his nearest intimates he was still Rob Freeland of Clydeside, and gloried in it. There was a bluff straightforwardness about him. He never struck the whiff of a note about his English education or occupation, but owned frankly that he had come early to England because he had heard there were more money made there, and that he had not been misinformed. At the same time he conceded to none the right to belittle Scotchness, the few who essayed it in his presence invariably regretted it.

"I went to tea at the vicarage, father," said Mary, leaning slightly on her bicycle, and smiling not perhaps quite so spontaneously and merrily as usual into her father's face. "Did you have a good trip to Manchester?"

"Oh yes, I got back at four this afternoon. I was thinkin' of goin' over to Granny's now. Maybe we could go together."

"I was there last night," said Mary, and then a sudden diffidence fell on her and turning she began to push the bicycle towards the door of the shed. Freeland took it from her and set it in its place.

"Mother indoors?" Mary asked.

"She is. You'll be put through your feelings, lass, about the minister that was here the day. You've been very close about it, haven't ye?"

What would Canon Severne have said could he have overheard himself described in this off-hand way as a minister? Possibly he might have been too great-hearted to mind. Mary looked the distressed she felt. Her face was crimson as she turned it away from her father's rather quizzical gaze.

"Well, lassie, what is there to it, eh?" he asked in his kindly, rather hesitating way. There was nothing more foreign to Freeland's nature than butting in on any other person's business. He was always warning his wife against it and asking her what she got out of it.

"There's nothing in the world folk want more than just to be let alone. I never was more surprised in my life, and I wish you would prevent mother speaking to me about it."

A slow, queer smile twisted for a moment Robert Freeland's lips. "There's nothing on earth would prevent that, Mary, woman. You'll have to go through with it. So he's not to be the one."

"No, no," Mary shook a rather rebellious head, and the tears were very near her eyes. "I hadn't any idea, and I can't for the life of me understand why he didn't speak to me since first."

"He had never said a word, then, before he came here?"

"No one."

"But there are other ways," observed Freeland slowly, thinking perhaps of the far-back days of his own courtship, when he had found it very difficult for an unknown young Scot to make his way.

"I tell you I hadn't an idea. Besides, it's ridiculous. He's too old, and I'm sure I don't know why he wanted to come bothering me and especially telling mother. She'll never let it down on me, I know."

"It pleased her very much, Mary. She says he behaved like a perfect gentleman."

"Why, of course, he is one; but, oh, father, I could have done without it. I believe that you've seen him the day then?"

"Yes, at the dinner hour on the meadow. What a time, and place! I was sorry for him all the same, but now could I help it? Don't you think life gets all muddled up sometimes, hopelessly muddled up?"

"It does that, but if ye bide a wee and dinna weary, it straightens again. I see you take it from me," said Freeland quietly. "I'm sorry for him, too, but at the same time, I'm glad he's not to take ye away, lassie. That'll be a black day for me, if you like."

It was a queer revealing moment—Mary's glorified face was hidden just for a moment on her father's grey sleeve; he patted her head rather awkwardly. The next moment she was gone. She would not have been fairly a daughter had she not stood up gallantly to the offensive, and no doubt it was better to get it over a once.

When she marched into the dining-room, her mother was alone putting some frozen ribbon of an exquisite robin's-egg blue into Bee's camisole. She looked up with a certain archness, which had a peculiarly irritating effect.

"I suppose you've had tea; and I was getting a little bit anxious about you and yet I wasn't. Have you anything to tell me, dear?"

"Nothing," answered Mary shortly. "I went along to see Mrs. Disney, and finding her in a muddle, stopped and cleared up a bit for her, and had tea."

"I'm afraid she's a bad manager," said Mrs. Freeland coolly. "When I hear of her she's always in some muddle or another."

"She has five infants, no help, and a frail body, mother. If there are really any haloes going on the other side, Hope Disney will need them, and only one to help her to forget the worries of this lower sphere."

It was a flippant speech for Mary to make, for she had much reverence, inherited from her godly forefathers, for sacred things. But there was something too provocative about her mother that evening, something which raised the devil in her. It even frightened her as she might feel afraid, suddenly seeing a chasm yawning in some dear, familiar place.

Mrs. Freeland, less sensitive than her daughter, took no offence, however, but folding her plump, complacent hands on her knee, prepared for ample discussion of the momentary theme which had occupied her whole thoughts since noon. In imagination already she had furnished Little Heath or some other and more important factory behind, Mrs. Freeland's parish benefice, arrived at terms of intimacy with the irreproachable family of the Severnes.

"But, Mary, on her own initiative, presently rang the curtain down on the pleasing picture."

"Mother, I want to tell you," she said, with a slight rapidity of speech, accompanied by rising color. "Canon Severne asked me to marry him to-day."

"I am aware of it, my dear," said her mother smoothly. "He came here to tell me, and to ask permission like the complete gentleman he is."

"I was very much surprised, because I hadn't an idea he felt like that. I have refused him, mother, quite definitely and he understands. Will you be so very kind as not to talk about it over—I couldn't bear it, really."

"Oh, but Mary, I'm sure you have been premature or, at least, precipitate—that is the word I meant to use," cried Mrs. Freeland, thoroughly roused and ready for the usual war of words concerning anything on which she had taken her heart. "Have you considered? He is a splendid man, not old at all, only forty-three; so handsome and courtly, and so well off, and such nice people."

Mary's lips suddenly twisted into the same kind of smile her father sometimes showed when at the end of his tether.

"What he array all his goods in his front window like that, mother? I've known him a long time and I simply can't believe it. Anyhow, I'm not going to marry him. No, I can't. I can't do it, and I don't want to."

"Oh, if he stays won't we have fun to-day nobody would ever have known of it from me. I hope to goodness you won't tell anybody," she added in a dismayed voice, suddenly picturing the Canon behind the door of the tea-table when the St. Barnabas set came in on "at-home" days.

Mrs. Freeland's deep disappointment betrayed itself in her rasping voice and in her injured air.

"The Canon apparently thinks very highly of you. He has seen only one side, the side you keep for outsiders. If he knew how lacking in respect for me you often are!"

"Oh, mother, I hope not. But I'm twenty-six, don't you see, and one can't go on being herded all one's days. One grows up and wants to have a free hand in the arranging of one's life. That is why I want to stop in Manchester. Can't I stop yet? I'm sure the new Squire would let me if I explained the circumstances to him. You, Mary, you don't get sense as you grow older, but only queer, confused notions. I never met anyone so absolutely without a sense of proportion. It is disgusting and complicates life quite unnecessarily for me."

THE TINY TINKLES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOCK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tinkles hopped upon his back. The giant said, "Give me a waack and yell giddap! Then I will crawl inside my little house. Now slap me good. Don't merely pat. You can't hurt me, I'm sure of that. You'll know that I'm not harmed 'cause I'll be quiet as a mouse."

"All right," said Scouty. "Goodness knows, I hate to strike you, but here goes." With that he slapped the giant, who burst out in merry glee. "Oh my, oh my, was that a slap! It felt just like a gentle tap. You'd better try your luck again. Make believe you're mad at me."

This time each Tiny twine his hand, and Scouty shouted, "Grand! I'm now begin to move, and take you where you want to go." Then, with his back quite downward bent, right through the door he shortly went. The Tinkles hid along on because he traveled slow, but hung.

At last he said, "That ends your ride, 'cause you can see that we're inside. Welcome as you can be. I'm going to have a bite of food, and as of course, I'm never rude, I hereby ask you Tiny-tinkles to join right in with me."

"Out in my kitchen you will find good food of every kind. You Tinkles do the serving. I'll just watch you that we can," one Tiny said, and they ran. Then Scouty whispered to the rest, "This giant seems quite fair."

When they returned with food to eat, they saw the giant had his feet spread far beneath the table, and they all began to grin. "I have to sit like this," said he, "and 'cause I'm so long, as you can see. And now, if food is ready, it is time that we begin."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Nut Gun

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis)

Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, mused some meat out of the corner of a hickory nut shell and called to his brother Billie.

"Come on if you're coming!"

"Where's the nut gun?" asked Billie, picking up the bit of shell Johnnie had tossed aside. "To see if there was anything left in it to eat. But there was hardly a crumb. Oh, Johnnie, didn't you have fun with it? Where was anything good left in them? Where do you want me to come, Johnnie?" asked Billie.

"Over to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow," answered the other squirrel boy. "He said maybe he'd come and stay all night at our house if we asked him, so let's go ask him now."

"I guess he won't bother us," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "Anyhow, I don't see him now," and he looked around among the trees.

Now there was a good reason why Uncle Wiggily and the squirrel boys could not see the Bob Cat. It was because the Bad Chap was hiding behind a rock. But the Bob Cat saw the squirrels and Mr. Bob Cat said to himself:

"I'll get him to-night, sure! He won't have Nurse Jane to save him from me. I'll get him, sure!"

So that night the Bob Cat went to the tree house of the squirrels. Mr. and Mrs. Bushytail had welcomed Uncle Wiggily and after supper the rabbit gentleman had told Johnnie and Billie some bedtime stories. Then it was time to go to sleep.

But in the middle of the night the Bob Cat crawled in a window and was going upstairs on his tippy toes to catch Uncle Wiggily when, all of a sudden, Billie awakened. Out in the hall he saw the Bob Cat.

"Oh, I can only scare him away!" thought the squirrel boy. "Maybe I can with these!" He put out his paw and picked up some hard round hickory nuts that he had kept in a chair near his bed to eat in the night if he became hungry. And then, being brave and bold, Billie threw the hickory nuts at the Bob Cat. They flew through the air and hit the cat on his head, and banged the Bad Chap on his nose.

"Oh, who shot me?" howled the Bob Cat.

"I did, with my nut gun!" chattered Billie. Then the Bob Cat ran away and the rabbit was safe. And if the sofa-pillow will give the piano a feather so it can fly around the room, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jackie's bone.

The Bad Chap was hiding behind a rock.

It was a great treat for any of the animal children when Uncle Wiggily came over to see any of their homes. And the old rabbit gentleman often did this, for he loved all the boy and girl animals of Woodland, and he had his hollow stump bungalow.

Soon Billie and Johnnie were scampering along through the woods across the snow, now climbing up in a tree and jumping from branch to branch and again running along beneath the snow-covered bushes.

All of a sudden, when they were almost at Uncle Wiggily's bungalow, Johnnie crouched down beneath the low branches of an evergreen tree and whispered to his brother:

"Keep still! Don't run out now!"

"Why not?" asked Billie.

"Because," answered Johnnie, "there goes the Bob Cat. He's sinking along and he would not know better than to take a nibble or two off us. Let's wait until he gets out of the way."

"Where do you suppose he's going?" asked Billie, as he crept and hid beside his brother under the low-hanging branches of the evergreen tree.

"Maybe he's looking for Uncle Wiggily," was the answer.

Uncle Wiggily was very careful when he comes out to go and stay at our house and then the Bad Chap won't catch him."

The Bob Cat seemed to pay no heed to the two little squirrel boys, but slunk along, his silly little tail looking like your thumb stuck on him. The tassel of his ear had snored on them. Soon the Bob Cat was out of sight and Johnnie and Billie ran on to the stump bungalow.

"What's that?" cried Johnnie Wiggily when he saw the squirrel boys. "Come and stay all night at your house? Why, guess I can do that. But will you give me something to eat?"

"Oh, yes!" chattered Billie. "We'll

SIDE GLANCES — By George Clark

"Hey, bring up my chewing gum, will ya?"

To-morrow's Horoscope

Friendly stars rule to-day, according to astrologers which finds the dominating planetary aspects benefic.

designs with professional persons or artists. Musicians are subject to a lucky day. Women are under a rule of the stars that seems most favorable to their material progress. All the signs appear to promise the greatest artistic awakening in the United States where the new architecture is destined to gain lasting fame.

It is a favorable wedding day, making for constructive progress and life-partnership. Women are particularly lucky in their choice and may be inclined to rule, it is foretold. This should be a fortunate rule under which to begin constructive or productive work of any sort. Engineers and builders certainly should benefit. Light will be used in many novel ways, and will be a symbol of the spiritual perception which will be evident in literature as well as in music and painting.

Wealth is to increase so amazingly that those who possess it will bestow it on great enterprises for the public good, and philanthropy is to become more general and more practical than it has been previously, if the stars are rightly interpreted. Serious research into occult subjects again is foreshadowed, and again the keen, practical scientific discoveries of startling character. Astrology is to become more widely accepted than ever in modern times.

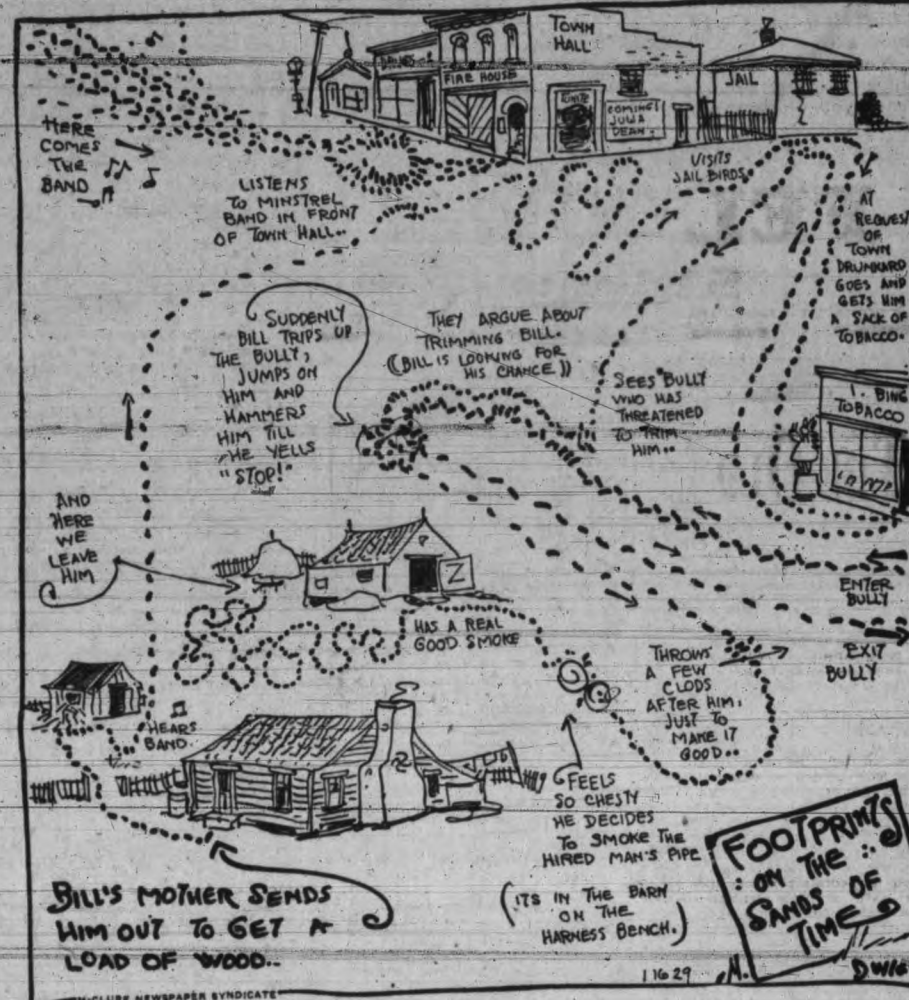

Men and women are counseled to think less selfishly and to love luxury less intensely if they would make the best of themselves in 1929, which is to demand heroic public service and courageous leaders.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a year marked by many pleasures to which friendship contributes much. Their environment is indicated for many. Children born on this day probably will have unusual charms of personality. These subjects of Aquarius are often exceedingly clever and witty. They possess varied talents and have executive ability. They are likely to marry young and be happy. (Copyright, 1929.)

RUSSIA EXPECTED FROM ORIENT ON FRIDAY MIDNIGHT

Twelve hours ahead of schedule the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia will arrive at the William Head quarantine station on Friday at 10 o'clock from China, Japan and the Philippine Islands according to word received in the city this morning by L. D. Chatham, local agent, from Capt. A. J. Hosken, commander of the liner. This time should bring the liner alongside the Rithet pier about midnight.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

CULTIVATING COMPANIONSHIP

One Mother Says:
A worthwhile effort in any home where companionship with the child is valued, is for the mother (father also), to make opportunities to go on outings with each child, sometimes alone. In vacations when one child has been invited to visit someone, I have made a point of having the best possible time with the one who remained at home; and the good time we have had and the tale of a tale companionship with each in turn, have paid big dividends in understanding and palship. If the children naturally pull together, break them apart sometimes, and you will find a mine of new values for everybody concerned by viewing each child as a separate individual being, and letting him see you too as an individual.

FROM 'WAY DOWN AT THE SOUTH POLE

These remarkable pictures show what life is like in the grim and icy Antarctic, where Commander Byrd and his men are waging their South Pole quest. 1—A close-up of a penguin; these big, man-like walking birds inhabit the polar continent in flocks of thousands. 2—This remarkable photo, reproduced by courtesy of H. G. Penning, is the only one ever taken exactly at the south pole. It shows Captain Robert F. Scott (centre, standing) and his four companions at the pole on January 18, 1912, as they arrived to find that Captain Amundsen had been there by thirty-four days. 3 and 4—Glimpses of the Antarctic landscape, showing the difficulties that Commander Byrd will face if his plan is forced down. 5—A bull sea elephant, a huge animal found in the water that form the outposts of the Antarctic.

TOKIWA MARU IS LOADING HEAVY FLOUR SHIPMENT

Greatest Cargo of Canadian Product For Orient to Be Taken By N.Y.K. Boat

Shipment Will Provide 12,500,000 Chinese With One Loaf of Bread

Loading the largest single shipment of flour ever dispatched from Vancouver to China and Japan, the N.Y.K. freighter Tokiwa Maru, which arrived here ten days ago from the Orient, is now taking on 7,200 tons, or 72,000 barrels of Western Canadian flour for Shanghai, there to be distributed to all parts of the Orient. The flour now being loaded on the Tokiwa will provide 12,500,000 Chinese with one loaf of bread.

The flour market in the Orient—China, Japan and the Philippines—is a natural one for the Western Canadian product.

The increasing quantities of wheat being shipped to the mills on the other side of the Pacific adds to the demand for Canadian flour, as the export of flour commenced to pick up with initiation of the development of the grain market in the Orient.

A few years ago K. A. McLennan of Vancouver made a tour of inspection of the Orient in the interests of western flour manufacturers, and upon the conclusion of his journey returned here with the report that there held great promise. As a partial result of this conviction he organized the Terminal Dock Company in the mainland port.

FLOUR ROLLING WEST
B. W. Green, a veteran shipping agent of Victoria and Vancouver, who has always pointed to and endeavored to assist development of the Oriental market, has been very active in the matter of the flour trade to the Pacific, and he and Mr. McLennan figure in this largest shipment of flour from Vancouver on the Tokiwa Maru.

Ten thousand tons of flour, the largest collection ever made at the terminal dock, is now in warehouse for loading on the Tokiwa Maru, and the S. M. Melville Dollar, and the snow-protection of the western grain fields is still doing westward in trainloads for other vessels due to load in the near future.

China's consumption of Western Canadian flour has nearly doubled in the last three years, but as yet the quantity from Vancouver is but a small portion of what it may become, according to Mr. McLennan and others, who are conversant with Oriental requirements.

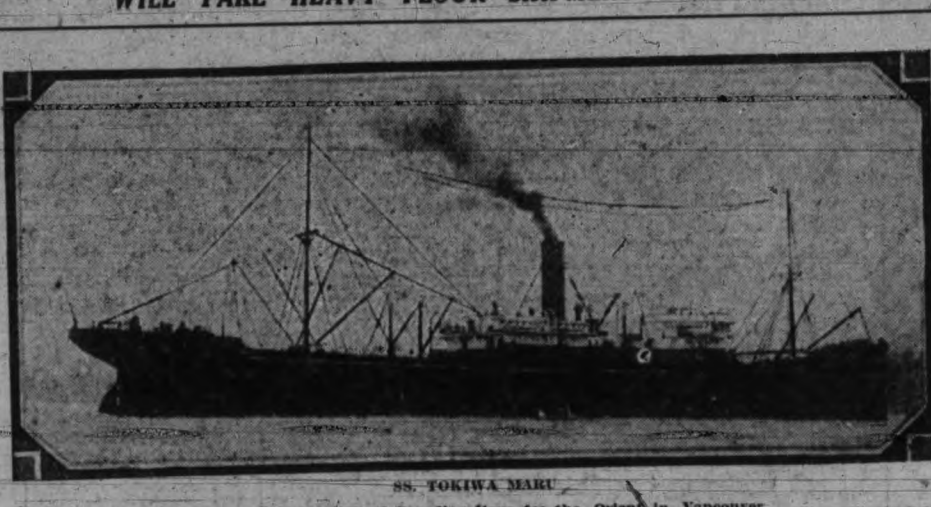

GROWTH OF DEMAND
Japan prefers taking Canadian grain and making flour in her own mills rather than import flour from Canada, but sometimes she buys heavily of flour. The Philippines market for Canadian flour has increased enormously in the last three years.

In 1925 China, including Hongkong, bought 608,650 barrels of flour from Vancouver. Last year China proper took 1,070,343 barrels, while 220,002 barrels went to Hongkong. Japan bought 80,750 barrels in 1925, 360,960 barrels in 1927, and 617,175 barrels in 1928.

The Philippines purchased 1,190 barrels in 1925, and 31,582 barrels in 1928. New Zealand markets absorbed 4,540 barrels in 1925, and 61,715 barrels in 1928.

Radio in Canada
The total number of licensed radio stations in operation in the Dominion and on ships registered therein was 218,700 on March 31, 1927.

VANCOUVER ASKS FOR $12,000,000

Making Heaviest Request in Canada For Aid From Ottawa For Development of Port

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—Consideration is being given to the requests from various ports of Canada for money to be devoted to harbor improvements. It is estimated in Government circles that Vancouver is understood to be asking for $12,000,000 to meet the great increases in the grain shipments from that port. While the British Columbia port is in first with its application, it is expected Montreal will ask for $10,000,000, Halifax $5,000,000, St. John $5,000,000, Three Rivers $4,000,000, and Chibouctou $4,000,000.

The Vancouver application is understood to be under consideration now and representatives from that port will be heard by the Cabinet in the near future. The Government advances money for harbor improvements on twenty-five-year debentures on the properties, to be eventually paid back.

barrels in 1925, and 46,530 barrels in 1928, the increase being steady, practically doubling each year. Six gangs of the Griffith Stevedore Company are engaged in loading the flour on the Tokiwa Maru in Vancouver at the present time, and are making record time, putting 2,500 tons on board each day. The ship will load some general after she completes the flour and will sail early next week.

SHIDZUOKA MARU WILL DOCK HERE 1 P.M. SATURDAY

From ports in China and Japan, the N.Y.K. liner Shidzuoka Maru will arrive at the William Head quarantine station on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, according to wireless advice received in the city this morning by A. H. Hebb, local agent, from Capt. H. Takeda of the liner. This time should bring the ship alongside the piers here between 2 and 3 o'clock to discharge 100 tons of general cargo, two steerage passengers, fifty-three sacks of mail and twelve for the mail plane. After unloading here she will proceed to Seattle with a heavy general cargo, including valuable shipment of raw silk.

SS. Garfield Refloated

New York, Jan. 23.—The liner President Garfield which went ashore Sunday morning on Mantilla Reef in the Bahamas, was refloated this morning, Captain Thomas P. Quinn informed officials of the line. It was not necessary to remove any of her cargo. The ship did not spring a leak while on the reef. She will proceed to Nassau at noon to pick up her eighty-nine passengers, who were taken there Monday by the liner Pan-America. She then will continue her voyage, it was said.

COAST LUMBER EXPORTS GAIN

Seattle, Jan. 23.—Water-borne shipments of lumber from Washington, Oregon, and British Columbia during 1928 reached a total of 5,691,038,714 feet, figures released by the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau reveal. In addition there were 431,489,478 feet of logs and bolts moved. General gains to most trade sections were shown, with decreases noted to California, the West Coast of South America and Australia. The decrease to the Antipodes was the most severe. Of the three districts, Oregon showed the greatest gain in exports with 16 8-10 per cent; British Columbia was second with 4 1/2 per cent, while Washington exports lost 2 9-10 per cent. Washington, however, led in the total amount exported with 1,427,207,435 feet, and British Columbia exported 765,558,123 feet.

DUCHESS LINER OFF ON CRUISE TO S. AMERICA

Duchess of Atholl Sails From New York For South America and Africa
Large Number of Canadians Aboard Include John E. Day and Mrs. Day of Victoria
New York, Jan. 23.—A brilliantly sunny day, sharpened by enough frost to contrast with the warm seas for which they are sailing, sped 350 passengers on the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Atholl on a cruise to South America, Africa and the Mediterranean at noon yesterday. Many Canadians prominent in society were aboard the yellow funneled liner when she reluctantly broke the many colored paper streamers that bound her to the dock. A large number of passengers from Great Britain, including the Earl of Roslyn, Lady McCracken, Colonel Sir E. A. Brotherton and other notables were aboard the ship.

During her voyage from South America to South Africa the Duchess of Atholl will call at the little known island of Tristan da Cunha, and supplies donated by sympathizers in Canada and Great Britain for the 150 lonely people who live there will be left.

Canadians taking part in the cruise are J. E. Wallbridge, K.C., J. D. Wallbridge, Hyatt Cox, all of Edmonton, Alberta; Mrs. Ellen B. Grayson, Miss E. Vaughn Grayson and Miss E. Kirk Grayson, Moose Jaw; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Butcher, Miss M. Butcher and B. Butcher, Owen Sound, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Day, Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. J. C. and Jocelyn Brennan, Ottawa; Mrs. S. A. and Miss Barnes, St. Catharines, Ont.; Miss L. D. Kirkness, Mrs. Chas. Danglefield Taffel, and Miss Virginia Taffel of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dwyer, Perth, Ont.; Mrs. Marie McWhelen and Mrs. Henry Southcott of St. Catharines, Ont.; Mrs. J. A. Comstock and Miss Wilhelmina Comstock of Brookville, C. S. Harding and W. J. Crampton of Montreal, and Harry Armstrong, Quebec.

SETTLEMENT IS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Vancouver, Jan. 23.—"As a nation we must speculate in development of our agricultural resources if we are to make the best use of the land, and in view of the important results to be obtained, it is not asking too much to suggest some losses be faced without complaining." These words formed the keynote of an address before the wholesale bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade at noon today by Major E. J. Ashton, D.S.O., who is identified with the Soldier Settlement Board and the general land settlement movement of the Federal Government.

NEW METHODS NEEDED

Newcomers needed, more capital and brought less than formerly, he said, and colonization methods must change to meet these changing conditions. The wealth the farms produced was the most important annual contribution not only to national, but to urban prosperity, and the city population should bear without complaining a fair portion of the cost of those services and institutions. Major Ashton recommended that British Columbia sell its agricultural areas near transportation facilities, to create near transportation facilities, to newcomers and Canadians at rock-bottom prices, calling for small payments and interest, but waiving interest charges during the first five years.

IN NEW BRUNSWICK

"A tri-partite agreement is already in force between New Brunswick, the Dominion and Britain," the speaker continued, "under which the province provides the land, the British Government finances stock and equipment, and the Dominion shares certain major losses, should they be made, and provides settlement and supervision services. If work like this is to be undertaken, it will be necessary to handle firmly, and sometimes dramatically, the incompetents who will somehow or other get in as settlers in spite of all precautions. It is difficult to tell the soul of a man, and in this work soul or spirit counts more than physique. The difficulties of your problem and the possibilities of trouble this entails should not prevent its being undertaken."

CANADIAN CLUB TOUR

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—Arrangements have been concluded here for the proposed European tour of a large party of Canadian Club members. The group, which is expected to draw members from every part of the Dominion, is to sail from Montreal aboard the liner Laurentic on June 8.
